'Where everyone matters'

Head Teacher Mrs. J. Bayliss

Thursday 4th March 2021

Dear Parents/Carers

You will be aware that, as part of your child's educational experience at Burnt Tree Primary, we aim to support your child in developing independence, respect and knowledge of the world in which they live. Part of the way that we do this is through a comprehensive taught programme of Personal, Social, Health and Economic Education (PSHE) education which supports our young people to develop the knowledge, understanding, attitudes and practical skills to live healthy, safe, productive and fulfilled lives. It will also support them to make their own decisions, both now and in the future.

From September 2020, the Department for Education was due to make part of this content statutory in the form of Relationships and Health Education. Due to Covid-19, schools have been given additional time to implement and to consult with parents around the curriculum that we will be using in school.

The new guidance focuses upon healthy relationships and keeping children safe in the modern world. The curriculum covers a wide range of topics relating to physical and mental health, wellbeing, safeguarding and healthy relationships. The curriculum is designed to support children to learn about the emotional, social and physical aspects of growing up in a modern and diverse world. It is designed to give young people the information, and help them to develop skills and positive values to have safe, fulfilling relationships and to take responsibility for their own wellbeing.

All of the sessions will be age-appropriate and meet the needs of all pupils in the classroom.

This guidance will form part of our schools PSHE Education programme which is taught throughout the school in every year group and is monitored and reviewed regularly by the staff and Governing Body. As a school, we have opted to use an adapted version of the Jigsaw curriculum programme, which is a nationally recognised curriculum package for primary PSHE / RHE.

To introduce parents to this curriculum in more detail, we would like you to read through the DFE guidance for RHE and the Jigsaw Curriculum Overview. If you would like to find out more, make any comments or provide any feedback, please complete our survey, following this link. Any other questions, please contact school. The closing date for feedback is 08.03.21. Depending on responses, we may hold a google meet at a later date to answer any further questions.

Kind Regards,

J Wood

Understanding Relationships and Health Education in your child's primary school: a guide for parents

We want all children to grow up healthy, happy, safe, and able to manage the challenges and opportunities of modern Britain. That is why, from September 2020, all primary age children will be taught Relationships and Health Education.

These subjects are designed to equip your child with knowledge to make informed decisions about their wellbeing, health and relationships as well as preparing them for a successful adult life. The world for all young people looks very different from the way it did 20 years ago when this curriculum was last updated – these changes bring the content into the 21st century, so that it is relevant for your child.

Your child's school will have flexibility to deliver the content in a way that is age and developmentally appropriate and sensitive to the needs and religious background of its pupils.

Relationships Education

Relationships Education will put in place the building blocks needed for positive and safe relationships, including with family, friends and online.

Your child will be taught what a relationship is, what friendship is, what family means and who can support them. In an age-appropriate way, your child's school will cover how to treat each other with kindness, consideration and respect.

By the end of primary school, pupils will have been taught content on:

- families and people who care for me
- caring friendships
- respectful relationships
- online relationships
- being safe

You can find further detail by searching 'relationships and health education' on GOV.UK.

Health Education

Health Education aims to give your child the information they need to make good decisions about their own health and wellbeing, to recognise issues in themselves and others, and to seek support as early as possible when issues arise.

By the end of primary school, pupils will have been taught content on:

- mental wellbeing
- internet safety and harms
- physical health and fitness
- healthy eating
- facts and risks associated with drugs, alcohol and tobacco
- health and prevention
- basic first aid
- changing adolescent body

You can find further detail by searching 'relationships and health education' on GOV.UK.

Your rights as a parent

The important lessons you teach your child about healthy relationships, looking after themselves and staying safe, are respected and valued under this new curriculum. Teaching at school will complement and reinforce the lessons you teach your child as they grow up.

Your child's school is required to consult with you when developing and renewing their policies on Relationships Education. These policies must be published online and be available to anybody free of charge.

You can express your opinion, and this will help your child's school decide how and when to cover the content of the statutory guidance. It may also help them decide whether to teach additional non-statutory content. Schools are required to ensure their teaching reflects the age and religious background of their pupils.

Some schools will start to teach these subjects from September 2019 – if you'd like to know more, please speak to your child's school about what they plan to teach.

Right to withdraw your child

You cannot withdraw your child from Relationships Education because it is important that all children receive this content, covering topics such as friendships and how to stay safe.

Your child's primary school can choose to teach Sex Education. If you'd like to know more about this, we recommend speaking to the school to understand what will be taught and when. If you do not want your child to take part in some or all of the lessons on Sex Education, you can ask that they are withdrawn. At primary level, the head teacher must grant this request.

The science curriculum in all maintained schools also includes content on human development, including reproduction, which there is no right to withdraw from.
